November 10th,
St. Leo the Great,
Pope and Doctor

Elected Pope in 440 and deceased in 461, Leo I shepherded the Church in most difficult times. He had to fight barbarians from without and heretics from within. Leo had to confront and turn back Attila the Hun (452), witness helplessly the sack of Rome by the Vandals (455), and at all times care for the souls and bodies of his people. Fittingly he has been called Pope Leo the Great.

November 11th,
St. Martin of Tours,
Bishop

Today's saint has become a legend. A Hungarian raised in Italy, an unwilling soldier converted to Christ, Martin gave away his cloak and became a monk in Gaul. Later he founded the first monastery in the West. In 372 this rugged, unprepossessing person became bishop of Tours. His great work was to organize a mission approach, founded more monasteries, in a sense made France Catholic. Martin died in 397.

Praise the Lord, my soul.

Pro-Life Corner:

November 11th - Abortion is a terrible form of murder, though decriminalized, for the simple reason that the victim is an innocent and defenseless baby in the womb and cannot plead for his/her life, cannot run, cannot reason with his/her parents who are the very same ones who are paying an assassin to end the life of their own flesh and blood.
